LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Corporate Partners,

On behalf of the FAMSTATE Chapter of the National Society of Black Engineers (NSBE), I am excited to invite you to partner with us for the 2018 - 2019 academic school year. Our chapter, a combination of Florida A&M University and the Florida State University, takes pride in carrying out the NSBE mission which is “To increase the number of culturally responsible black engineers, who excel academically, succeed professionally and positively impact the community.” We complete this mission by holding professional development events and workshops, hosting study sessions, volunteering weekly at local middle schools, hosting STEM days for the Tallahassee’s youth population, awarding scholarships, and creating a family for any and all students of STEM majors. It is our chapter’s mission to provide our members with the resources necessary to be successful students and also increase the graduation rate in minority engineering students between both Universities.

Since our chapter’s 1986 founding, we have been awarded many awards with our most recent being 2017 – 2018 Region 3 Chapter of the Year. We currently have 98 active members with an average GPA of 3.195. We have completed and logged over 300 community service hours this past academic year, with plans to exceed that amount this year. Our chapter comprises of the majors Computer/Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Industrial Engineering, Biomedical/Chemical Engineering, Physics, and many more STEM majors, with 49.48% of our members being male and 50.52% are female. Along with our achievements, we do our best to take as many members as we can to our Fall Regional Conference and our National Convention to expose our members to different companies and expand their network.

Our partnership with our corporate sponsors have not only helped in the success of our chapter, but also played a huge role in our members being able to find companies that align with their passions and goals. We are helping mold “culturally responsible Black engineers” that will not only benefit their employers and communities, but also the future of minorities in STEM. Through the support of our corporate sponsors, we hope to advance the excellence in our community by sharing the wealth of knowledge and opportunities we have been presented with.

We sincerely applaud your interest in our chapter. We are extremely excited for another year of growth and development with our corporate sponsors, and hope that we will be able to engage with you all; thank you.

Best,

Daziyah P. Sullivan

LETTER FROM THE FINANCE CHAIR

Greetings,

My name is Handy A Pierre and I have been graced with the opportunity to fulfill the 2018 – 2019 role of Finance Chair for the FAMSTATE Chapter of the National Society of Black Engineers. I am excited to welcome you to partner with FAMSTATE as we seek to construct strong bonds and bridge the gap between our vibrant communities and engineering. In addition to that, with a stellar and robust group of members who are spearheading in the STEM field, we hope that you will aid in joining in NSBE's mission to increase the number of black engineers who are prepared to succeed not only in the classroom but in Industry and the community.

Our challenge of increasing the number of well-rounded, black engineers to help diversify the workplace can be met with you as our partner. Our members are prepared for the upcoming year, and the eagerness to secure chapter of the year once again is vividly present. Furthermore, we have planned several projects that involve service to the community and mentorship programs to ensure continual success. We hope that you will consider helping us to not only keep the momentum going but to strive for better as we look to not only set up NSBE events but take part in events that your company has planned. I believe that we, together, have what it takes to make each other's goal come to fruition.

That being said, I invite you to pursue our partnership packet where we offer three packages from which you can choose. You will find that each package is composed of resources that is beneficial to you and will assist in achieving your mission. Keep in mind that when you are partnering with FAMSTATE to become a vigorous organization, you are, in turn, giving your company the potential to have a positive return. For over 30 years, our chapter has been dedicated to raising the bar for all underprivileged engineering students. FALL REGIONAL CONFERENCE

NSBE's Fall Regional Conference (FRC) is designed to unite all active members in our region annually and to present opportunities for professional and academic development by providing access to a large career fair featuring over 80 different STEM employers, scholastically competitive events to showcase wit and skill, and networking events to foster healthy relationships between potential new hires and employers.
